

Brendon Bula

Brendon Bula has been a Trustee with the Hood Foundation since 2014. After growing up in Texas, he moved to the California Bay Area where he earned a B.S. in Accountancy with a concentration in Finance from Santa Clara University. Brendon then earned his C.P.A. and spent 6 years in public accounting serving not-for-profits, private foundations, and other publicly traded technology and manufacturing companies. After leaving public accounting, Brendon has served in many finance and operational leadership roles across many business functions and geographies at Tesla, Volta Charging, and currently Palantir. Brendon currently lives in San Jose, California with his wife, Kirsten, and three daughters where they enjoy the good weather and outdoor activities.
